Claims 4-12 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-7 of U.S. Patent No. 5,993,875 in view of Villamar (5,698,246) and further in view of Hjornevik (WO 99/12435).

Hiornevik discloses cooling and preservation of fish. This process uses the ammonium salts of formic and also can include the double or ditetra salts (column 2, lines 29-30 and 46-48). This process is described as better than the former process because the former process included acetic acid, which is corrosive and causes "etching" in the workers (column 1, lines 44-46). Claims 4 and 5 appear to differ from the reference in the suggestion that glycerol is also used. Villamar teaches that glycerol is an antimicrobial composition for use in coating foods. Since the purpose of the Hjornevik process is to preserve fish, it would have been obvious to include glycerol in the composition as a partial substitute for the formic acid antimicrobial agent since both these compounds are known anti-microbial equivalents in fish products. In addition, Hjornevik teaches the use of glycerol and cocobetaine as additives for fish processing that prevents corrosion. Thus it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to include the components of the secondary references in the fish process of the primary reference in order to reduce the corrosion in the metal equipment.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) do not apply to the examination of this application as the application being examined was not (1) filed on or after November 29, 2000, or (2) voluntarily published under 35 U.S.C. 122(b).

Therefore, this application is examined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970);and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

Art Unit: 1761

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 4-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being clearly anticipated by Hjornevik (WO 99/12435).

Claim 4 is objected to because of the following informalities: Claim 4 depends from cancelled claim 1.

Appropriate correction is required.
